

Solterre emerged from the mind's eye of Harry Grammer (HG) and took wing after HG got the-four-of-us on stage for an inspired jam on a strange night in Hollyweird.

But HG heard what he wanted; and, Solterre subsequently recorded in 4 different locales: HG's Topanga Canyon home and his garden (which offered a majestic 360 degree view of Topanga Canyon); my piano bar; and, Dr. Carter Dewberry's Anaheim studio.

Each song represented in "Where the Earth Kisses the Sun" was done in a single take; where 3-and-sometimes-4-of-us (when Aykanna added percussion) would take a musical journey together.

Some vocals; kick drum; and other effects were added later in attempts to accent the raw, initial recordings. We can only hope that this recording inspires new journeys to find that place where the earth kisses the sun.
